Dear colleagues,

I am a General Internal Medicine specialist now accepting referrals in the following areas:

- Obstetrical Medicine including hypertensive disorders of pregnancy, obesity, metabolic syndrome and diabetes, thyroid disease, cardiac disease, liver disorders, autoimmune disorders, and thrombosis in pregnancy
 - obstetrical patients can be seen within two weeks, or on a more urgent basis, and followed throughout their pregnancy as needed
- Perioperative Medicine
 - perioperative patients should be referred at least 3 months prior to their anticipated date of surgery if possible
- Bariatric/Obesity Medicine
- General Internal Medicine including hypertension, diabetes, metabolic syndrome, ischemic heart disease, autoimmune disorders, thrombosis and other benign hematologic disorders

I recently completed my General Internal Medicine fellowship at Memorial, where I also completed my medical school and residency training. I have completed additional training in Halifax, Ottawa, and Calgary throughout my postgraduate years. I will also be working as a General Internist at St. Clare's Mercy Hospital and as a Clinical Assistant Professor of Medicine at Memorial University.

I look forward to working with you all.

Sincerely,

Dr. Ashley Power
